President To Be Elected By Loyola Student Body

Plans have been announced for a mock election which is going to be held this month on the Evergreen campus. The election is being jointly sponsored by the Green and Grey and the I.R.C., with senior John Byrnes and junior Dick Moore serving as co-chairmen of the election committee.

A series of three talks will be given by members of the History and Social Science Department, which are intended to inform or educate the student body on the issues at stake. The first talk is scheduled for Wednesday, October 12, when Dr. Nicholas Varga will discuss Mr. Kennedy and the Democratic Party Platform. The following Wednesday, Mr. Hans Mair will speak on Mr. Nixon and the Republican Party Platform. The final talk, scheduled for Oct. 26, will be given by Dr. Harry W. Kirwin, who will summarize the issues.

Platforms Displayed

In addition to the talks, the election committee hopes to secure copies of both of the party platforms, as well as a large supply of Kennedy and Nixon buttons. These will be placed with the display which has been set up in the library, and all students are urged to take copies of the respective platforms and souvenir buttons.

As a final point of interest, a debate will be held on Friday, Oct. 28th, in Cohn Hall. Four seniors will argue over the abilities and potentialities of Messrs. Kennedy

On Wednesday, October 12, a representative from the U.S. Department of State will talk to a group about the Foreign Service Officer Exam and positions in the Foreign Service. The meeting will be held each hour from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Xavier Lounge.

Poetry in Motion

The American College Poetry Society announces its fourth poetry contest. Contributions must be the original work of the student and may not exceed 48 lines. For more information contact the English Department.

Swedish Hams

The Loyola College Amateur Radio station, K31QG, recently contacted a military station located in Linköping, Sweden. Although interference was quite bad, the two stations were able to exchange such information as signal reports and types of equipment. The radio station also made communications with other "Hams" in such distant states as Texas, California and Nebraska.

Frosh Welcome Dance Held Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow night will mark the opening of Loyola's current social season with the presentation of the "Freshman Welcome Dance." Festivities will be held in the gym from 9 til 1. Sponsored by the Sophomore class the dance will feature the melodic aires and scintillating sounds of Baltimore's own Dellonaires.

The dance will be the first on Loyola's campus since last May's "Swing into Spring" and promises to be just as delightful a success. Although the decorations of the dance will not be quite as elaborate as last May's twirl, they are expected to be expertly arranged by two foremost artists whose skill with crepe paper, cloth, and hula hoops is remarkable.

Capacity Crowd Expected

With an early surge of ticket buying a crowd of approximately 300 couples should fill the gym. A large frosh turnout is expected to be in attendance. The Soph dance committee contends that this crowd should at least equal if not better the attendance figures of all previous college dances of its nature.

According to dance co-chairman Pete Cook, "If this dance measures up to the work which has been done on it by my fellow class officers, college officials, faculty members, and members of the class, it will be one of the most tremendous successes in the history of the school."

As is customary after all Saturday night school dances, a Mass will follow in the chapel.

Insurance Aid Debate Topic

Loyola's Bellarmine Debating Society held its first meeting of the year on September 28, and lost no time in getting down to work. The topic for this year is "Resolved: That the United States should adopt insurance for all citizens" and thus differs significantly from the program that was recently before Congress.

The first tournament of the year, to be held at the University of Maryland, will begin on October 22. It is designated as a warm-up for novices as well as varsity.

Plans are also being made to tape record practice debates in order to let members judge their own performances. A committee was also chosen to draw up a constitution and William Everhart became the new librarian.

Officers of the club are: President, Tom Curtis; Vice-President, Bob Goldsmith; Recording Secretary, Ed Slawski.

Quarterly Exhibits Creative Works

Loyola's "Evergreen Quarterly" which at one time was laughingly referred to as the "Neverseen Quarterly", will, according to Editor Joe France, be published at least four times during the coming year. Advised by Mr. Francis L. Christ, the Quarterly will appear under a new cover at least one time in each of the year's four seasons.

This year, the primary aim of the magazine will be to showcase the creative work of the student body in all fields, and to give every student, who has done something worthwhile, the opportunity of exhibiting his work to the rest of the student body. This applies to art and photography, as well as to literary works done by Loyola students.

Council Notes

Last Friday at 10 a.m. the fourth meeting of the Student Council was held in Xavier Lounge. Highlights of the meeting were the report of the Parliamentary Committee, and the question of establishing a fraternity on campus.

The Parliamentary Committee reported that only twelve of the co-curricular activities had submitted constitutions to the council. October 14 is the deadline date. Delinquent activities will lose their budgets and campus recognition.

Concerning the fraternities a group of Sophomores presented reasons for its establishment. More deliberation took place at Wednesday's meeting.

High Academic Standard

To maintain a high academic standard, it is necessary for the college to set a definite grading system, a standard that should vary only slightly according to the teacher. Therefore, it is up to the teacher to classify a student in one of the five grade categories. Deviation from such a set standard could cause serious scholastic difficulty.

An "A" numerically is 93-100; a "B", 86-92; a "C", 78-85; a "D", 70-77. Anything else is a failing grade.

In addition to the test marks and the final semester exams, such factors as literary and subjective values of book reports, term papers, and all types of written assignments are included. Also, it is necessary to take the quality and quantity of all the work done in a subject into consideration. Such indications as class participation, subject interest, and attendance in class are also included in the mark, which remains as a permanent record of a student's academic achievement.

Some students disagree with the faculty on the marking system at Loyola. However, in past years the faculty has found that this system of academic classification is best for the good of all students.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

In your last issue, you raised the provocative idea of a debate between the pin-wearing politicians concerning the coming election. Fortunately, or unfortunately, as yet, I have not been able to garner a pin to wear, since I've been doing a small bit of leg-work for my party. However, the fact that I am not a billboard does not mean that I am any the less enthusiastic. Thus, if you are unable to find anyone else to do so, I would consider it a privilege and a duty to meet on acceptable terms in public with any student espousing the fatalistic platform of the Democratic Party. Should you find someone better equipped than I to uphold the correct side, I shall do all I can to assist him, since I sincerely feel that it is a gross crime for anyone privileged enough to have a college education to waste it by voting for Senator Kennedy.

Looking forward to hearing from you in this regard.

I am,

Summer Camp Kills 31

"Hi Fred", I said to the young man sitting on the bar stool at Elgert's. He turned around and looked at me, but then turned away. "I guess you don't recognize me. I'm Bob Reiter, just back from ROTC summer camp."

"Gee Bob, I didn't recognize you. You look so different with your head all bandaged up. But where is everybody? I thought we were all going to meet here and tie on a heck of a load to celebrate the end of camp. I've been here five hours and you're the first one to show up."

"Well, I guess I'm the only one that survived. You ought to be glad you didn't go to camp this summer. It was tough."

I sat down next to Fred and noticed he was missing one leg. "My knee was giving me so much trouble I had it amputated four weeks ago. But you say everyone's gone. What happened? Where's Mike Neiberding, for instance."

I ordered a bromo and then began to tell my sad story. "Well, Mike was brigade commander first week of camp, got all hepped up, and decided to go to Cuba and stop the revolt. So he got Brad McNally, John Sanders, and Warren Eberhardt and took off. Last we heard they were all executed in Havana."

"Yea?" said Fred. "Tough. But where's, well . . . Jerry Balda?"

"Remember how he used to think he was a big man with the rifle? Well, he didn't qualify on the range, got so upset, he shot himself."

"Tom Gentner and John Dodson got married before you went away."

"Yea, I know. They and Dick Prodey couldn't stand being away from their wives and took off for home after two nights. M.P.s. got

'em though. AWOL from ROTC camp means the gas chamber, you know."

"Yea," exclaimed Fred.

"Yea, and speaking of gas chambers, we had a demonstration of one at camp. We had to hold our breath, walk into the gas chamber, wait til a bell rang, and then put our masks on. Well you know how big Wade Bowman, Leo Andrew, and John Quinn's heads are?"

"Couldn't get the gas masks over them, huh?"

"That right," I said, "Tough way to go, but they had a nice funeral."

"Frank Wiecznski; he had that funny laugh. What happened to him?"

"Well Fred," I said, ordering another bromo, "That laugh proved to be his downfall. He and Ray Ater were on guard duty one night in the cadet parking lot. They saw a big, blue convertible with a female at the wheel, speeding around the parking lot. Ater started chasing it, and Frank began with that silly laugh. The female turned out to be a hoodlum in disguise who had been stealing hubcaps. He got so embarrassed after hearing the laugh that he pulled a gun and shot Ray and Frank. Then making his get away he ran over Dick Hauer, Pete Karczeski, and Stan Matz who were just returning from the Officers Club."

"Gee," said Fred, "I think I'll have a bromo too. What happened to Marty Skane?"

"He got it down at AP Hill. We were on company in the attack. Marty had just sat down to eat his canned rations. An enemy plane flew real low and dropped a gas bomb right next to Marty. He got so P.O.ed. he picked up a

If the P.R.'s drill on the parking lot, where do they park their cars? — On the drill field? Nothing so pleasant to an old admirer of Army life than being held up by a detail of marching men. If you care to know of their progress in the art of marching just ask their leader. By way of answer he turns to the group and bellows, "Cover." Then with two-thirds of your auditory nerves shrivelled up, he will look at you knowingly and ask, "Does that answer your question?" We have been advised by the local eye and ear men to answer yes. Another question might prove fatal to the middle ear.

We have on hand a letter from Mademoiselle magazine. To wit:

"Dear Editor:

As a college editor, you're in a position to know and encourage the best writers on campus, so we're turning to you for recommendations of outstanding women undergraduates for MADEMOISELLE's annual College Board Contest. We're looking for girls interested in magazine work-girls who might like to compete for a chance to work on MADEMOISELLE for a month." — Anyone on campus interested?

rock and heaved it at the plane the next time it flew over. Hit it, too. Did some kind of damage 'cause the plane crashed. Killed Marty and also John Coleman, Jim Foley, and Al Budacz who were sacked out behind a tree."

"How about Larry Sheridan," said Fred falling off the barstool. I think the stories were upsetting him, so I asked him if he wanted me to stop. "No, tell me the worst. Tell me, tell me."

"Well," I said, helping Fred back onto the stool, "I imagine it was the sun that got Larry. He started walking around preaching he was the almighty. Got some followers too. Yea, Ed Murn and Bo Bavis decided to be priests and follow Sherry. They thought they were indestructible and stood in front of tanks. I was one of the spectators, as the huge vehicles plowed over them. I must admit it was a peculiar burial."

"Ken Donohue?"

"Lie detector test during the M.P. demonstration. Ken volunteered to be the victim. Remember that unsolved murder about five years ago . . . ?"

"Not Ken," said Fred finishing his bromo and ordering another one.

"Yea Ken. He claimed Dave Carney, Thom Curtis, and John Healy were in it with him."

"Were they," asked Fred in amazement.

"I don't know, but they all four got the chair."

"How about John Heagney?"

"Well he, Joe Tormey, and John Connor were all on the same field problems reaction test. Connor was leader of the problem where he had to test a bridge to see if it was safe to cross. He said it was, but as they crossed, it gave way and all three drowned."

"Wait a minute," said Fred, "there's one that hasn't been accounted for, Rol Sturm. He was really funny the way he fell asleep in ROTC class right in front of Captain Wightman."

"Yea, he could really sleep; as a matter of fact that's the way he went. First day of camp he fell asleep under his bed, was swept out with the dust, and thrown into the incinerator; burned to death."

Gosh that's tough," said Fred. "Say Bob, Let's shoot some darts."

It sounded like a good idea to me, so we got two more bromoes, and headed for the dart board.

and Nixon, two each plugging for the respective candidates.

Students Vote

On the same day, the voting polls will be open. Two voting machines will be set up in the lobby of the Student Union building, one for students over 21 and one for those under 21. Voting will start after the debate and will continue for the rest of the day.

A lot of trouble has been taken to set up this mock election for the student body. The Greyhound encourages its readers to participate actively in the campaign this month, and on Oct. 28, to get out and VOTE.

City Life

The Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society succeeded again in giving the college a very enjoyable evening of theater. They delivered "The Importance of Being Ernest" by Oscar Wilde to full audiences due mainly to superb student support.

On the credit side were excellent male performances, marvelous settings and quick pacing.

Ron Yakaitis was truly a surprise with his careful and controlled interpretation of the part of "Jack Worthing"

Ed Slawski did a wonderful job in a role almost diametrically opposed to his own personality.

But it was Ed Conery in the role of Dr. Chasuble who stole the show. The female parts were also handled very capably.

HARRIERS TO RISK 3 YEAR SKEIN

Rol Sturm VIEWS Sports

By Rol Sturm, Sports Editor

When the Hound Harriers travel to the Catholic U. campus tomorrow, they will be putting their unbeaten string of fourteen victories in as many dual meets on the line. Last year there was very little doubt about the Hounds ability to remain unbeaten, but his is a different story.

Sherman-Burton Era Ends

As if the loss of two great runners Paul Sherman and Stack Burton, through graduation were not enough, coach McElroy has also lost a couple of outstanding prospects from last year's squad. Mike Burton and Hank McGraw two outstanding freshman runners last year, have departed the squad. Mike has forsaken Evergreen for the Naval Academy while Hank has been declared ineligible due to sickness.

McElroy Ever Ready

Coach McElroy, however, who is never one to stand on his laurels has come up with a couple dark-horse entries from the freshman class in Denny Voith and Bill Frampton. These two Hound frosh are reputed to be in a class with Paul Sherman, one of the best runners Loyola has ever had.

If this be the case and Lew Smith who was one of the most consistent runners on last years squad can maintain his usual pace, the Hounds will still be tough to beat.

Jim Kennedy

Booters Seek Second Win At C.U. Tomorrow

Tomorrow the Soccer team will go for win number two against Catholic University. The Hound kickers were 3-1 victors in last year's fray and their improved team will again be favored.

Last Saturday, Loyola took a 5-0 defeat at the hands of an extremely talented Maryland team. However, the game was not as one-sided as the score might indicate. No less than 3 of the Terp's goals were of the "freakish" variety. At the half the score was 1-0 on a goal at 5 minutes of the first quarter by Nick Limar. Sophomore goalie Don Wallenhorst was on his knees waiting, but the ball trickled off his arm. The rest of the scoring took place in the third period as Cliff Krug of the winners smacked in 3 markers and assisted on a goal by Frank Triole to conclude the scoring.

Freshman Show Promise

Throughout the game, Maryland was completely outthrustled by a determined Loyola team. Loyola controlled the ball continuously, but couldn't click when near the visitor's goal, which was strongly protected by All-American fullback Al Vossinkle and their fine goalie, Bill Liemair.

Sparkling the Hounds throughout was a quintet of goodlooking freshmen: left inside, Sam Amato; center forward, Dennis Grabowski; fullback, John Campbell; and halfbacks, Vic Broccolino and Mike Elliott. Junior Jim Kennedy, playing the entire game, also had an excellent day.

The continued steady work of the veteran kickers combined with the fine newcomers give hopes for an excellent year. The Hounds will be going all out tomorrow to add to their win ledger.

Hounds 2, Towson 1 Jim Kennedy, CHB Tells His Story

By Jim Kennedy

Anyone who witnessed the first ten or fifteen minutes of the game probably thought he was one of the first spectators to a Mason-Dixon rugby game. It was not until a Towson lineman was ejected for interference with our goalie Don Wallenhorst that any resemblance of a soccer game took place.

From the indications of the score, 2 to 1, it was a close game but I believe that Loyola dominated the play most of the game. Although we kept the ball in Towson's territory the majority of the game, we were unable to capitalize with more than a pair of goals.

It was not until the third quarter that Den Grabowski, our center-forward, was able to alleviate a mild congestion in front of Towson's goal by putting the first score of the game in the right corner of the nets.

Towson bounced right back with a goal to notch the score but Joe Kosoriek with some nice footwork put us ahead to stay with a shot that was just too hard for Towson's goalie to stop.

It was a team victory, and if we continue to play together, and score, we will have a fine year.

Tomorrow the long awaited day will have finally arrived. The "Hounds" will have their first meet against Catholic University at Washington. Coach McElroy will have a better insight as to how good this team of his really is.

He will know if the victory skein still lives and if so, what its odds of remaining that way are. The last time the team suffered a setback was way back in the middle of 1957 when the Jays of Hopkins bested them by one point.

This defeat must have incensed the anger of the "Hounds" for no-one has come close to beating them since then in 14 dual meets.

THE TEAM

The team that will take to the field to keep a win streak alive will have boys like Tom Kenny, in his second year as well as the outstanding duo of Frampton and Voith who seemed destined to be bright stars on the Mason-Dixon cross country horizon.

Unfortunately the team will be operating without the services of Hank McGraw. Hank is being disallowed running due to illness. This was a hard blow for the team to take as he was one of the boys instrumental in the team's fine showing last year.

Innovation

This year the team will be trying something new as to the running of their home meets on October 11 and October 13. The meet will be run in between the halves of the soccer game in which the "Hounds" are also participating.

This is a gimmick thought of by Lefty Reitz and should bolster the soccer game attendance as well as giving many people an opportunity to see and enjoy the cross-country meet as well. The team is one of the finest Loyola has to offer and through this idea many people will be able to appreciate an excellent, but not very well supported team on campus.
